The Honorable Sterling Johnson, Jr. Senior United States District Judge United States District Court Eastern District of New York 225 Cadman Plaza East Brooklyn, New York 11201

Re: United States v. James Cadicamo, et al. Criminal Docket No. 09-135 (SJ)

Dear Judge Johnson:

The government respectfully submits this letter in response to the June 26, 2012 request by a member of the media for disclosure of plea agreements in the above-captioned matter. For the reasons set forth below, the government does not object to the disclosure of the agreements to members of the media.

Under the common law, the public has a "general right to inspect and copy public records and documents, including judicial records and documents." Nixon v. Warner Communications, Inc., 435 U.S. 589, 597 (1978). Similarly, under the First Amendment, the public has a "qualified . . . right to attend judicial proceedings and to access certain judicial documents." Hartford Courant Co. v. Pellegrino, 380 F.3d 83, 91 (2d Cir. 2004); see also Press-Enterprise Co. v. Superior Court of Cal., 478 U.S. 1, 9 (1986). According to the Second Circuit,

¹ As the Court is aware, defendants James Cadicamo and Angelo Ruggiero, Jr., each entered a guilty plea, pursuant to a written agreement with the government, on May 10, 2010 and June 22, 2012, respectively. An executed copy of each agreement was marked as a Court exhibit and has been retained by the government.

"[t]ransparency is pivotal to public perception of the judiciary's legitimacy and independence," though it "must at times yield to more compelling interests." United States v. Aref, 533 F.3d 72, 83 (2d Cir. 2008).

In United States v. Haller, 837 F.2d 84, 86-87 (2d Cir. 1988), the Second Circuit held that there was a qualified First Amendment right of access to plea agreements. In the instant matter, the plea was taken on the record in open court, and neither the plea colloquy nor the plea agreement itself has been ordered sealed by the Court.

For the foregoing reasons, the government respectfully advises the Court that, absent any objection from the defendants, the government does not object to the disclosure of the plea agreements to the media as requested.

Respectfully submitted,

2
